

AMERICAN GUNS SHOOT 30 MILES WITH EASE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—The American navy has designed, built, and is now manning with blue-jackets specially trained for land service, the large, and most high-powered mobile land artillery in the world. It is stated in the annual report of the secretary of the navy recently issued. The type of gun referred to is of 14-inch calibre, hurls its projectile 30 miles, and can be moved from one end of France to the other, on specially designed railway cars on which the guns are permanently mounted, as easily as can field artillery.

In comparing this type of gun with the German long-range "freak" guns which fired on Paris, the report says: "They (the German guns) were built on permanent steel and concrete foundations which were eventually sought out by allied airplanes and the guns subsequently silenced. The shells were small and specially built for long-range flight. This fact reduced their military efficiency. The German long-range guns, while they had a certain moral effect, were without great military value. The American guns fire projectiles approximately seven times heavier than the shells the Germans used against Paris."

Other recent achievements of the navy department as shown by the report, include a special mine-loading plant with a capacity of more than 1000 mines a day. This plant has been established near Yorktown, Va. About 11,000 acres of land was needed for the enterprise.

In Brooklyn the navy department has built what it said to be the largest concrete storehouse in existence. The navy has also installed in Annapolis the greatest high-power radio station in the world and in Washington has constructed two of the buildings for war expansion, one for the navy and one for the war department, which "considered as a group exceed in volume and floor space any other office building in the world regardless of type; indeed, it is thought that no existing office building is larger than either of these two." Time records were broken in the construction of these buildings. The total floor space of the two buildings is approximately 1,800,000 square feet, or more than 41 acres.

The several wings if joined end to end would form a structure one and three-quarter miles long, 50 feet wide and three stories high. A complete circuit of all the exterior walls would require a journey of four miles.

That American inventive genius intends to take no chances with a foreign foe is indicated by the fact, as stated in the report, that the naval consulting board has considered more than 110,000 ideas, inventions and devices submitted.

YANKEE TROOPS IN RUSSIA LOOK BETTER THAN A CIRCUS

(Correspondence Associated Press)

HEADQUARTERS ON VAGA RIVER, Russia, Oct. 29.—The debarkation of American troops at this little town was better than a circus for its population, who treated it as such and spent hours and hours watching the proceedings.

The town is hilly, with big grass-covered cliffs right at the river's edge breaking into a sort of a natural amphitheatre at the landing place. The townsfolk, particularly the children, came to this amphitheatre early in the morning and clung until late at night to the covered places nearest the old paddle steamers and barges from which the Americans debarked.

Efforts of husky American engineers to move their wagons up the hills, aided, or rather deterred, by Russian horses who couldn't understand the language, brought glee to the dirty, plaited little Russian girls and long-toussered, grimy-faced, chubby lads, whose ears were tickled by strange swear words.

Entrance to the boats was prohibited, but the kiddies, with all the zest of American youngsters sneaking under the tent at a circus, stole up the gangplanks and knew the smiling Yanks were only joking when they poked at them with their bayonets.

This town treated the Americans, and also the Russians and others in the allied contingent as savours and deliverers from the Bolsheviks.

St. Michel Party.

One infantry company at the end of several hours' advance found that it had cut off several scores of Germans in a wood. The Germans didn't show any fight. Most of them didn't even exhibit enough nerve to come out and surrender. When it came time for the captain to make his periodical report to his battalion P. C., this sentence concluded the message he sent back: "Have about a hundred friendly troops in woods on my right."—Paris Stars and Stripes.

Kidding.

A buck was hauled up before the C. O. for missing, revelling and asked why he failed to get out of the bay.

"Why, sir," says the buck, "I had Green sleeping on one side of me, Brown on the other, White above me and I am red-headed so I figured I was camouflaged and that the top wouldn't see me."—Plane News.

Literally.

"Did you see where a big bombing plane to show its capacity carried a plane from Paris to London?" "Well, that was music in the air."

JAPANESE SHIP BUILDING

(By Associated Press)
TOKIO, Jan. 10.—A Japanese ship-building yard at Kobe has built a steel steamer, the Daifuku Maru, of 9600 tons in 23 days after the laying of the keel. The Japanese compare this with the building of a 5000-ton steel steamer in 27 days at the Camden, N. Y. shipyards.

STEAMSHIPS RESUME

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, Jan. 10.—Representatives of several large British steamship lines have announced the resumption in the near future of ocean traffic between British and Mexican ports.

Why let Germany eat at the second table?

Every time a boatload of troops went up the river to the front a great crowd gathered on the cliffs and cheered them, and when the town's own company of Russian soldiers went off to fight the cliff was fairly black with singing, cheering crowds.

Big blue and white and brown houses of logs and wood, heated by great porcelain or brick stoves, are being shared here by their owners with the allied troops and many other soldiers are accommodated in the barracks once built for the Cossack guards of the late Emperor Nicholas.
